

Earlier in his welcome address, Mr. V. Krishnamurthy, Chairman of the Board of Governors, said that the process of management education did not stop with acquiring the MBA degree. A large number of successful managers had no formal management education. It is the quality of work and one's contribution to the organization and the country and not the pay and perks that really matters, he remarked.