

101 bodies take part in 'My Waste My Responsibility'

DNA Correspondent

correspondent@dnaindia.net

The Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) on Tuesday had organised a one-day workshop on 'My Waste My Responsibility' in city to discuss about best practices that private organisations adopted during the month of July under a competition based on the same theme. Also, they had announced awards to the best practitioners.

From city, 101 institutes participated in the competition where there were educational institutes, offices, hospitals and some of the industrial units as a participants. First prize was won by Cosmos school, IIM was the first runner up and St Flower was the second runner up for following best practices of waste disposal.

CII conference

In the event, mayor Gautam

Shah remained present as Ahmedabad Municipal Corporation (AMC) is the partner organisation for the event. Shah is emphasising on Swachhta in city, ever since he was selected as mayor of city and is doing Swachhta Rounds in different wards.

"In order to promote the mass movement for cleanliness, many key initiatives have been undertaken by us. AMC is strongly committed & focused to excel in the area of Solid Waste Management (SWM)," said Shah.

Dr Tejas Shah, deputy health officer of civic body informed about various awareness and methods adopted by AMC for Swachhta Ab-

CII'S ACTIVITES

- Awareness around 101 organisations in treating and safely disposing of waste
- Promotion and ensuring the effective delivery of waste services

hiyan. "We are advocating reduce, recycle and reuse culture and bringing various stakeholders at a common platform to share the best practices. As of now segregated waste has been collected from 30 wards of city, which we are trying for recycling" said Dr Shah.